The growth of the west

An association with the Western Bulldogs Football Club delivers you to the front door of the fastest growing area in Australia.

Such has been the battle for investment and population growth in Melbourne’s West over the past decade, respected demographer Bernard Salt refers to it as the ‘Western Front’, ... and it’s a battle the West has won.

KEY STATISTICS

- 20,000 new residents every year until 2026
- 6,000 new homes built annually
- $1.2 billion in new residential mortgages
- $180 million in extra retail spending every year

Infrastructure

Major rail and road projects, plus the presence of Avalon Airport and the Port of Melbourne, means development is heavily skewed to Melbourne’s West.

Business

With available land and proximity to ports, transport and the CBD, the West has become the hub of Melbourne’s manufacturing, property and logistics industries.

Demographics

Teenagers and active retirees are the two fastest growing segments in the West, giving you access to those traditionally “difficult to access” groups.

Digital Branding

Advertising with the westernbulldogs.com.au allows brands to connect with fans through integrated and targeted advertising campaigns, in association with one of the most prominent brands in the West of Melbourne.

With a significant growth in content, the Club's website is the first stop for members and fans. Brands can interact with the Club's highly engaged audience through a mix of news, branded video packages, competitions and a variety of social media platforms. westernbulldogs.com.au is consistently ranked in the top 6 in all AFL monthly digital benchmarks for web engagement.

The Sons of the West Men’s health program (SOTW) tackles the alarming health statistics across Melbourne’s west, specifically amongst the male population.

The program targets men aged 18 years and over who live or work in Melbourne’s west. It provides a platform for these men to explore the many facets of health and engage in activities to improve overall health and wellbeing. Using the power of the Western Bulldogs brand, SOTW has demonstrated an ability to engage a typical hard-to reach demographic and deliver a program that achieves real health outcomes.

PARTICIPATION

- Since SOTW was launched in 2014, participation rates in the program have more than doubled. In 2015:
- 2100 men registered with the SOTW program
  - 700 men attended men’s health expos and completed pre-program health checks
  - 283 men completed post-program health checks
  - 380 men attended at least one education session
  - An average of 260 men attended weekly programs and participated in 70 hours of health related sessions
  - More than 240 men participated in over 60 hours of weekly physical activity.

ENGAGEMENT

- Participants engaged with the program through:
- 30 weeks of health education and physical activity sessions run in conjunction with key health organisations and facilitated by local councils;
  - Regular online content through sonsofthewest.org.au including cooking and fitness video series;
  - Regular electronic Direct Mail (eDMs) promoting and celebrating program events;
  - Large scale public events aimed at supporting engagement and awareness (i.e. Western Bulldogs Family Day, match day experiences, Community Men’s Health Forum); and
  - Social media and text messaging.

PROMOTION

- Cumulative program promotion reached an audience of at least 48 million through radio, print, television and online promotions that highlighted men’s health as an issue.
- Between March and August, 2015, the website was accessed 13,654 times, representing a 23% increase on 2014.
- Facebook likes increased by 505% and Twitter has seen a 70% growth in followers since the conclusion of the 2014 program.

DELIVERY

- In 2014 and 2015, SOTW programs were delivered between March and August only. In 2016, however, the SOTW program is expanding with content and programs across the entire 12 months.
- The program is delivered in collaboration with five local councils in Melbourne’s Western region including Maribyrnong City Council, Hobsons Bay City Council, Melton City Council, Brimbank City Council and Wyndham City Council. Sessions will be conducted at council venues, Victoria University Whitten Oval and Etihad Stadium.

- Recognition and Benefits:
- Corporate Partner recognition
  - Brand exposure opportunities
  - Logo on media banner, website and social media
  - Opportunity to use the program as a platform to engage staff and stakeholders
  - Access to Western Bulldogs SOTW player ambassadors
